We do admire the public spirit, pluck and liberality of the Dallasites. Four years ago Dallas wifs a village inferior to Paris in population and wealth, but to-day it is the most prosperous city in the state, Galveston and Houston not excepted. Dallas possesses that element in her population that would build up a town on a barren rock were they to altermpt it. Enterprise and city pride on the part of her citizens is what has made Dallas, in a few years, the most prominent city in Texas.
